Bio:

I am so glad you are seeking spiritual companionship! Welcome.

Every person's story deserves a loving witness. My hope for people sitting with me is for them to experience greater inner freedom. What that looks like is unique to each individual. What I offer is a curious, non-judgmental presence, and a place to be real. So, bring your questions, your doubts, your yearnings, and we will listen together for Wisdom.

As a queer person who spent much of my life active in Christianity, I have experienced some of the complexities unique to the intersection of faith and queerness. I connect with the sacred through relationships, in nature, and while creating - usually something out of wood. I am passionate about the oxford comma and prime numbers. I am happy to sit with people of any religious tradition or of none.
